Peace Lily

Also called Spathiphyllum, Peace Lily has beautiful green foliage and striking flowers which last for many weeks.

Give it a good life

Place your plant in low light and it will live well, but give it some good indirect light and it will thrive! It needs regular watering and will thank you with luscious foliage if you also spray it with water a couple of times a week.

Peace Lily is very forgiving if you sometimes forget to water it.

Maintenance

Some fertiliser in the growing season of spring and summer will give it a little kick. Think to replot it annually in the spring, as the plant will appreciate the refreshed soil.

Share the goodness

Peace Lilies are easy to propagate as new growth becomes separate plants. When the peace lily grows too large for its pot, it can be divided. Remove the plant from its pot and split it into smaller plants, being sure to leave several leaves per clump. Once the sprout settle in, give one to a friend and spread the love
